MTH 116 : MATHEMATICAL APPLICATIONS

This course provides practical applications of mathematics and includes selected topics from consumer math, algebra, and geometry. This course covers integers, percent, interest, ratio, and proportion, measurement systems, linear equations and problem solving. This course produces institutional, non-transferable credit only and will not satisfy the requirements for Associate in Science degrees.

Credits 3