

AUT 145 : INTRODUCTION TO MOLDING

Students learn the fundamentals of molding operations, including molding terminology, machine part identification, operating safety, machine controls and machine startup and shutdown. Students are taught to identify common part defects such as short shots, flash, warp, surface defects, color changes and shrinkage. Students learn the properties of commonly used molding materials.

Credits 3

Lab Hours 0

Theory Hours 3